Brian McKay

Clever, Clean and Fun.

Like a lot of good stories, this one started with Brian talking a little too confidently.

His wife called his bluff and signed him up for improv and stand-up classes. Six weeks later, he performed at his first showcase, crushed the room, and was offered a paid opening gig by the club owner that same night.

That was back in 2005, and he's been performing ever since.

Today, Brian is known for clean, clever comedy built around everyday life, marriage, family, work, and the stuff people instantly recognize in themselves. He's the kind of comic who can win over a room without making the booker nervous.

What They Said After They Stopped Laughing

Funny, relevant and clean.

"Brian McKay is funny, relevant and clean… He has found a way to help people laugh at the little things other comedians often overlook."
— Robert A. Rohm, Ph.D.

He made an impact in our organization for months after the event.

"Hiring Brian was the best decision I ever made while planning multiple conferences… People were literally rolling out of their chairs."
— Jeffrey S. Tipton

Not even a hint of a four-letter word.

"Brian works his magic without even a hint of a four-letter word… his humorous insights into relationships, marriage, child-rearing and just plain living are priceless."
— Bob Hass
